Meet the new lady boss

Mansi Bagla and renowned film-maker G. Ashok have collaborated under the banner of Mini Films and have purchased the rights of three super-hit South Indian films for Hindi remakes.

While G. Ashok is also currently busy with the Hindi film, a remake of Bhaagamathie-Durgavati starring Bhumi Pednekar, Mansi is gearing up for her directorial debut with a Marathi film, which will be a remake of 2017 super hit Telugu romantic comedy—Ninnu Kori.

Mansi says, “Acquiring the rights of three South Indian films and contemplating my directorial debut have not happened overnight. It’s the result of a robust groundwork along with my team for years. I am not backed by any insider or outsider and I have come till here on my own with my hard work and dedication.”
